Key words: Perception, Covid-19, Health Protocol Violation

The purpose of this study was to determine the perceptions of citizens about violations of the Health Protocol, the factors and impacts caused by citizen perceptions as well as efforts to overcome citizen perceptions of violations of the Covid-19 Health Protocol. The theories used in this study are the theory of perception, Covid-19 and violations of the Health Protocol. This study uses a descriptive method with a qualitative approach. The data collection technique used 3 methods, namely interviews, observation and documentation. In this study using inductive analysis techniques, namely analysis that is based on specific facts and then examined and produces a general understanding.

Based on the results of the research that has been obtained, this study shows that people's perceptions of violations of the Covid-19 Health Protocol are still not good in being concerned about the implementation of the Health Protocol. Factors that influence people's perceptions of violations of the Health Protocol are influenced by a lack of knowledge about the dangers of Covid-19 and the sanctions given by officers are still not firm. The impact of the violation of the Health Protocol can be felt until the time this research was made, such as the Covid-19 pandemic which has not yet subsided, in fact it is always increasing every day. Apart from the health impact, there is also a declining economic impact on the residents. In an effort to overcome residents' perceptions of violations of the Covid-19 Health protocol, the Government must provide education evenly in every village or village in the Wiyung District area about the dangers of Covid-19 and must also apply strict sanctions.
