The Researcher,

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In the name of Allah, the Most Gracious, the Most Merciful. With praise to the Almighty, I am finally able to complete this thesis, titled "The Perspective of EFL Students on Extra Learning via Mobile WhatsApp for Academic Writing of Descriptive Text at Students Vocational High School Surabaya." This thesis has been a journey of both difficulty and delight, and I am grateful to have had the opportunity to complete it.

This thesis explored the perspectives of EFL students on the use of Mobile WhatsApp for extra learning in academic writing of descriptive text. The findings of this study suggest that Mobile WhatsApp can be a valuable tool for extra learning, as it allows students to access resources and collaborate with others at any time and from anywhere. However, the study also found that there are some challenges to using Mobile WhatsApp for extra learning, such as the need for students to have access to a smartphone and the need for teachers to be well-trained in using the platform.

By doing all the effort that had been put into the research will not be enough, the researcher realized that she would never finish this thesis without any help from others. So, the researcher would like to deliver her gratitude to:
